

"Abortion is no more a single issue than was slavery. It is instead a defining issue - one which shapes the future of the nation. The present legal policy of abortion-on-demand, which permits even the killing of infants being delivered, weakens the social contract that has kept this country together. To cooperate willingly in evil is morally wrong, and our present laws make us all at least passive cooperators in the crime of abortion." The late Cardinal Frances E. George, Archbishop of Chicago

A Picture Is Worth a Thousand Words

"Modern-day psychologists have proven beyond the shadow of a doubt that Confucius was correct, and indeed our understanding and retention of presented material is magnified overwhelmingly when it is presented in a visual form. This of course drives the pro-aborts crazy, and they attempt desperately to find any arguments possible to prevent the graphic presentation of abortion. I have always found it curious that many people who claim to be against abortion get violently upset when we present these visual materials. We must ask of them why it is that they become so emotionally upset at the pictures and obviously have not been so moved by the evil and violence of the act itself!"

~The late Robert C. Cetrulo, J.D., Co-Founder and President of NKRTL
